What are childrens face rashes?

IMPORTANT:- Please ask our advice first as some face rashes may need different treatment.

The most common children's face rash we see is known as "Atopic Eczema."

Eczema is a general term which, to most people, means a general spread out rash or inflammation of the skin, which causes redness and sometimes itching.

The most common type of eczema in children is atopic eczema.

In early childhood, the rash is often present over the face, limbs or trunk.

Atopic eczema on the backs of the knees.

Eczema can also form small itchy bumps and tiny blisters.

In later childhood it tends to occur at the elbow and knee creases, and on the neck, wrists and ankles.

Eczema has a tendency to fluctuate in severity.

There are a number of trigger factors which can cause flares of the rash.

These include irritants, emotional stress, low humidity, dry skin, friction, heat and sweating & allergies. and infection.

How to treat Childrens facial rashes & eczema for fast relief.

1. Do not use soap.

Chances are you are already using a soap free cleansing product.

The best types are those that are in the form of bath oils such as "QV Bath Oil" "Alpha Keri Bath Oil" or similar. These products will leave a protective layer on the skin to help prevent the skin drying out.

Rather than putting the Bath Oil just in the bath water, Try putting about 2 teaspoonsful of the oil squeezed well into a wet face washer and gently washing the affected skin with this. This will give the skin better protection than just putting the oil in the bath.

2. Dry the child then apply David's Lavender Facial Balm to the affected skin .

For best results apply 2 or 3 times a day. You cannot over use it.

It will not sting sensitive skin

The correct amount will leave a shiny protective film on the surface of the skin.

3. You can expect results within 7 days.

4. Treating Dribble & Teething Rashes.

Saliva is the cause of these rashes so apply the Facial rash balm before each feed and before laying the child down to sleep. This ensures the skin is protected so that it can heal naturally,

Why David's Lavender Facial Rash Balm is so effective.

Unlike most creams the special base is totally water free and has an anti-itch effect so it protects without stinging. The barrier formed by the balm is very water resistant and seals the skin from drying out while protecting the damaged areas from skin bacteria & irritants such as food & saliva.

The formula is non-toxic as this balm was specifically made to be applied to infants faces & body.
