What is Nappy Rash ?

Nappy Rash describes any rash occurring in the area under the nappy.

The treatment of Nappy Rash is the same even though it can be so severe the skin is raw and bleeding.

Thrush is a common problem which can accompany nappy rash. Thrush & Nappy Rash are both eliminated by David's Soothing & Healing Nappy Cream .

Severe Nappy rash can flare up overnight.

The combination of a wet and dirty nappy can produce ammonia from the breakdown of urine by bacteria in the bowel action. The ammonia severely irritates the skin.

Gastroenteritis in babies causes severe nappy rash which is slow to heal. Once the bowel motions are back to normal healing will take place fairly rapidly.

It is important to thickly & frequently apply David's Soothing & Healing Nappy Rash Cream to protect the skin from further damage. This is especially important when there are frequent bowel motions.

How to treat Nappy Rash.

Do's & Don'ts for curing Nappy Rash Fast.....

1. Use disposable nappies as they are more absorbent than cloth.

2. Do not use baby wipes as these are often irritant to damaged skin. Use a cloth and warm water.

3. An old wives tale which seems to work is to avoid broccoli in the diet when nappy rash is present. We have found this to work and suggest you try it.

Broccoli is fine to give when the nappy rash has healed again.

4. Apply David's Soothing & Healing Nappy Rash Cream thickly at each nappy change for fast relief.

5. If the skin is very irritated & appears raw it is important to apply the cream extra thickly so healing will be as fast as possible and the extra thick cream will give the skin extra protection especially during the night.

5. The Cream becomes thick on cold winter nights. Warm the jar for about 5 seconds in the microwave (or store near the heater.) so the cream has the texture of soft margarine. You will be able to easily use it now.

The cream may be warmed as often as needed in cold weather.

6. Do not use talcum powder on the Nappy Area.

The special Formula.

Developed for our own children, the formula contains no cortisone. Based on a waterproof zinc rich protective base with 3 medicinal plant balsams, the formula is designed to stay on the skin providing essential long term protection. David's Soothing & Healing Nappy Rash Cream promotes rapid healing and creates a barrier that repels irritants and bacteria from urine & bowel motions.

Why David's Soothing & Healing Nappy Rash Cream is so effective.

Most creams do not protect the skin from urine and bowel motions long enough for healing to naturally take place.

Normal creams simply disappear off the skin into the nappy.

David's Nappy Rash Cream forms a very water resistant barrier to seal the skin from urine and bowel motions. allowing healing to take place rapidly.

Also Ideal for Older Adults who have incontinence problems.

Simply apply when changing the incontinence pad.
